It has been proven beyond a doubt, by the most scientific men of the day, that disease is often promoted by the use of soap in which the use of putrid fats and oils, and fats extracted from animals dying of a malignant disease, are employed. Hence the necessity of every housewife exercising caution in purchasing her Soap.
We use nothing in the manufacture of our Soaps

VIRGINIA CELEBRATION.—Virginia and Gold Hill united on the 4th in the celebration and right well they did it. Both towns were a sea of flags. These emblems of our country were placed everywhere. The procession would have been fine if more attention had been paid to regularity by the marshal and aids. In some places gaps of two or three hundred feet would exist in the procession which marred the beauty of it. The literary exercises took place on the Virginia side of the Divide. Five brass bands furnished music for the occasion. Among the features of the procession were a representation of Columbus discovering America, which was very fine. The entire Gold Hill force turned out in a wagon. A job press was busy running off programmes of the day which were thrown on every side. The Horribles attracted much attention and some of them were well gotten up. The town was crammed to overflowing with people, but not a thing occurred to mar the pleasure of the day. It was not as hot there as it has been here, though we found it plenty warm enough. Fireworks in great numbers set off in the evening, and many illuminated. All of the mines suspended operations for the day.

FEARFUL ACCIDENT.—While four men were ramming a charge in the cannon at Carson, 4th of July evening, in the salute, it went off prematurely and injured every one of them more or less. One of them had both arms torn off, another had a rib torn out and thrown some distance from him, still another had his side and breast torn off, while the fourth had his face badly burned and skull broken. The latter died in a few minutes. We hear that another died yesterday morning, and the others are not expected to survive. Three of the injured men were moulders engaged in the V. & T. machine shops at Carson and the fourth was a wood chopper. The cause of the discharge was the carelessness of the man who had his thumb on the touch-hole. He lifted it while they were ramming the charge in, when it went off, with the result above given. This occurrence cast a gloom over the entire town, and was the only thing which occurred to mar the pleasure of the day. Their names are Wm. Dallaber, Robert Henderson, Kendrick Reed and J. M. Tilton. The survivors are receiving every attention, and are doing as well as can be expected.

FINE SIGHT.—The people of Virginia City with their usual enterprise, caused five cords of pitch pine wood to be placed pyramid shape on the top of Mount Davidson. This was set afire on the evening of the 4th and the blaze shot up to a great height, so that it was easily seen for a long time. It was seen from Washoe valley by the people of Franktown and Washoe City, who could also see the rockets which were set off near the fire. The task of carrying such a quantity of wood up such a precipitous hill as Mount Davidson will be appreciated by all who have seen it. It has been carried up by camels which were two weeks in getting it there.

A NUMBER of prominent American residents in Paris have taken the initiative in a movement to place on the tomb of Lafayette, to-day, some recognition of the services which the illustrious General rendered to the United States. The proposal is to erect a marble statue, with an inscription recalling what Lafayette did in the cause of American independence. The stone on the grave at present is a plain one, and unworthy of the memory of so great a man.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

San Francisco News.

San Francisco, July 5.

The city is very quiet this morning and the people are "taking a rest," after the excitement of the past two days. None of the morning papers appeared except the Alta, which omitted publication yesterday morning.

The telegraph wires are all down east of Omaha. A heavy storm is raging in that section, consequently news is confined to local matters, of which there is scarcely anything of interest outside of the celebration.

Last night the city seemed given up to the undisputed reign of fireworks of every description. Hundreds of bonfires were blazing and the fusillade of crackers and bombs was almost deafening until midnight. A great crowd witnessed the fireworks at Woodward's Gardens, and over 6,000 spectators attended the carnival ball at the Pavilion, which was handsomely decorated for the occasion. The costumes of the masker, though in many instances elegant, presented little novelty, but the crowd was in eminently good spirits, while preserving perfect decorum.

A man named Page, brakeman on the Southern Pacific Railroad was stabbed about 10:30 last night near the corner of Mission and Third street by some person whose name is not learned. He was removed to the drug store, corner of Market and streets, and died there. No arrest has been made, nor are any particulars known.

The procession yesterday was the largest ever had in the city. It was over two hours in passing one point. Many features were in the line which made it of an imposing character.

To-day will be mainly devoted to the race of the San Francisco Yacht Club, and to a general tapering off on the part of citizens, whose patriotism during the last few days has been of an exhausting nature. Some of the retail dealers are opening their doors as usual, but the wholesale houses and principal places of business will remain closed until to-morrow.

The proposed State Constitution for Colorado has been ratified by an overwhelming majority. Colorado will vote for President this year.

The National Gold Medal was awarded to Bradley & Ralston for the best Photographs in the United States, and the Vienna Medal for the best in the world.

PIONEER BARBER SHOP.—Messrs. Enkle & Morris are still at the old stand. Three first-class artists can always be found on hand, who are second to none on the Pacific coast. There is nothing so luxurious on a warm Summer day, than to sit under the manipulations of one of these artists. If you are troubled with dandruff, have a headache, or a fit of blues, an application of our justly celebrated "Tonic Magniff" will remove the same as if by magic. Ladies and children wishing anything in the line of hair cutting and shampooing can be waited upon at their residence by Prof. Morris, who is no novice in the business. Hair restoratives, hair oils, bay rum and everything appertaining to the business always on hand. Give us a trial.

FIRE INSURANCE.—Parties desiring insurance against loss by fire will find it to their advantage to call upon J. K. Everett, at Larcombe's store, corner Second and Sierra streets, Reno, Nev. Policies obtained at low rates in the following first-class companies: Home Mutual of California; Faneuil Hall of Boston, and Mississippi Valley of Tennessee.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

GRAND TILDON AND HENDRICKS

RATIFICATION MEETING.

AT RENO ON

Saturday Evening, July 8th, 1876.

The Washoe County Democrats, Independents and all men "opposed to the rotten, corrupt and thieving" administration of the affairs of the General Government as practiced by the Republican party and evidenced in each department of the Public Service by the criminal action of its incumbents. (Republicans) high in authority, acknowledged leaders of the party, commencing with Simon Cameron, ex-Secretary of War, whose speculation drove him to resignation of his position and finishing with members of the present Cabinet, including in the list of vampires, a long line of such men as Schuyler Colfax, General Fairbank, General Babcock and General Schenck, whose corrupt and thieving practices, backed by and in league with an almost invincible power of the most perfectly organized body of office-holders (over 80,000) (strong) ever known in the world's history, striving only for perpetuation of their power and consequent immunity for crimes past, and security from future prosecution. This vast army of leaders upon the body politic in turn leagued with and supported by a still larger army of singulars whose sole business is dividing and ex-cuting means for robbing the Public Treasury, the Bank, the Railroad, the Indian Reservation contract and other rings, each robbing the Treasury of millions annually, and each the other's protector, forming a compact mass of corruption and power so formidable in its proportion as to require the united efforts of the American people to free our country from this blighting curse. For this purpose and to this end all honest reformers are invited to participate in the ratification of the St. Louis nomination, for PRESIDENT, GOVERNOR S. A. TILDON of New York, RE-VICE PRESIDENT, RON. T. A. HENDRICKS of Indiana, able Statesmen, pure Patriots and Tried Reformers, whose election is a guarantee to our country of the speedy and certain destruction of all wicked combinations, corrupt rings and influences used to the injury of the Public Service and of condign punishment to the perpetrators. Whose election will be a guarantee that all operations of the Government will be conducted on the strict old Jacksonian principle of Honesty, Capability, Republican Simplicity. Whose election makes merit a leading qualification for retention in official position. Who election ensures the carrying out of the principles promulgated as the platform of the party in the coming campaign. Then come forth every villain-war of his country and by a united effort, show our appreciation of these Great Reformers and Eminent Statesmen.

J. H. GRAHAM and OGDEN HILES of Virginia City and our own local orators will address the meeting.

By order of the Democrats of Reno, in Mass Meeting assembled and of the County Central Committee.

THE CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION IN RENO.

Better Observed Than in Any Other Town of Its Size on the Continent!

The Grand Procession, Literary Exercises and Barbecue!

Notes of the Day—And All Matters Connected with the Anniversary

No town of its size in the United States more appropriately celebrated the Centennial anniversary of American Independence than our own, and Reno has good reason to be very proud of the showing she made, it being by all odds the best ever witnessed in the town, and for a town so young, comparing favorably with what was done in a large number of the largest cities.

Early in the morning the occasion was ushered in with the booming of cannon, chiming of bells and flying of flags, and the excitement increased until the forming of the procession, when the people from the neighboring country had gathered in by hundreds. Grand Marshal Jones, assisted by his aids, Allen C. Bragg, J. H. Kinkaid, J. D. Pollard, S. W. Gregory and Orville Sessions, were early at their posts of duty, and much of the evolution is due to their management. The procession was as follows, headed by the Reno brass band, whose music during the day was warmly applauded. Then came Amity Lodge, No. 8, K. of P., twenty-four members strong, all mounted on jet black horses, the Knights arrayed in their beautiful uniforms, their helmets, plumes and swords glistening in the bright sunlight, and taken as a whole forming one of the most important features of the occasion. Following them were carriages containing the President, Orator, Poet and Reader of the Day. Then the Car of State containing the Golddees of Liberty, with its 37 young representatives, all attired in holiday costume, and making a grand display of youth and beauty. The next was a party of ladies and gentlemen representing the thirteen original States, and attired in the dress peculiar to those olden times. There was Brother Jonathan, Geo. Washington, Patrick Henry, and all the other old timers, and the ladies too of one hundred years ago. In our opinion this representation was decidedly the best gotten up arrangement of the procession, and reflects much credit on T. W. Norcross, J. C. Smith, J. C. Haynes, and others interested. Reno Engine Co. No. 1 made a fine turnout, 40 members strong, and looking splendid in the new uniform. The steamer was gaily bedecked with flags and flowers, and polished as bright as a new trade dollar. The hand engine was also elaborately decorated after the same style, and the boys on the hose carts presented as good an appearance as the older firemen. The Reno Library was represented by an elegant wagon drawn by six horses, and containing ladies. The Mexican Veterans, eleven in number, followed behind. The scarred old veterans were objects of interest among many a looker-on. The Board of Trade was also represented. The boys belonging to the C. P. fire engine No. 48, were next, and looked every inch like good firemen. Then came the various representations made by business houses. The Reno Lumber Co. had three wagons on which was shown their articles, and "Old Trust" was made up in fine style. C. A. Bragg & Co.'s six-horse wagon was filled with goods from their lumber yard. J. L. McFarlin's business was well represented, and the man kept constantly at work during the march, the fire and forges being quite a novelty. C. L. Buncel made a similar showing. J. N. Jaquish & Co. were also there and harness making looked easy. William J. Lake was not to be outdone by his neighbors, and showed his ability for shoeing a horse, while the procession was in motion. C. A. Simmons and Salisbury & Reymann made a showing in the fruit and grocery line. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express wagon was loaded with boxes and bullion and packages to represent their line of business. The Washoe Brewery wagon and Jose's soda wagon, were both well loaded, and after the procession was over the boys made a run on them and soon swallowed the contents. "Old Bob" was on hand, labelled "Born in 1776—will die in 1976." Johnson was in his element. Dallam's bakery wagon was neatly fitted up and carried something sweeter than bread or pies. Charley Johnson was out with his job and express wagon. S. N. Davidson selected a novel manner by which to advertise his jewelry establishment, but Davidson is always doing something no one else would think of. The Vulcan Powder Works display was in keeping with the others.

Citizens in carriages and on horseback made up the remainder of the procession. When all was in readiness the procession moved down West street, and after traversing the principal streets, brought up at Dyer's Hall where the literary exercises of the day were held, which consisted of an oration, poem, reading, singing by the Glee Club, which was very fine, and music by the band. These occupied about two hours when everybody adjourned to the barbecue grounds. The barbecue was a greater success than we thought it would be. Everything was cooked in first class style, and was relished by nearly a thousand people. Dave McFarland did his share of the day's work well. The two bullocks, eight sheep, two hogs, beside the pork and beans, and 200 pounds of bread, were soon devoured, and many a man had a good square meal, besides the novelty of the thing. The rest of the day was given to enjoyment, each consulting his own taste. In the evening the Firemen's ball was largely attended and passed off pleasantly. During the day there were but few drinks, few fights and better than all there were no accidents of any kind or nature to mar the pleasure of this glorious Fourth. It was the general remark of all that a better celebration had never been conducted or taken place anywhere.

The following is the oration delivered by W. M. Boardman:

At the end of the first century of the Republic it is indeed becoming to look back over the wonderful progress we made, and inquire: What is the force that has so developed this land? From what fountain have we drawn this elixir of life, that, in one brief century, has raised an infant nation to the full strength of manhood—to a development never before acquired by any nation upon the whole round world? From colony to State, from State to United States, from liberty proclaimed to liberty achieved, from federal compacts to more perfect union and constitutional safeguards, from barren lands to fruitful fields, from simple industries and trade to the thundering tread and whirling music of advanced and advancing industries, art and commerce, at and from the spot where our liberties were first nurtured, fostered and declared to the nether bounds of the Republic, on a continent between two oceans, overshadowed with flags and vocal with the shouts of forty million of freemen, do we, in common with them, rejoice in our country, our Union, our liberty, our flag and our destiny, peace and prosperity? Something more than a century ago, plain, unpolished men were laying the foundations for this Republic. "They builded better than they knew." Breathing contentedly the free air of a new, wild continent, they acquired more and more a love of Liberty; till at length, filled with a hatred of oppression and a determination to free themselves forever from its dominion, they declared that "all men are created free and equal," and to prove to the world that this was their unalterable faith, they pledged their "lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor" to its upholding. To that end they wrote the vindication of their faith, with bayonet and steel, under the living flames of immortal battle, upon the face of the continent. To that end they struggled and suffered, and died—sometimes in dungeons and sometimes on fields of battle, from the echoing, flashing fires of Lexington to the triumphant closing thunders of Yorktown. This was the "spirit of Seventy-six," the inflexible determination to come what would, of battle, of bloodshed, of rapine, to make this broad land the home of Liberty; that here free government, constitutional liberty, free men, freedom of thought and speech, should be established, and here they should remain forever.

To this unfettering of the body and soul and mind of man, is due the vigor of our progress. Early in the same century France had given proof, in the long oppressive reign of Louis XIV., a reign whose whole animus had been intolerance and oppression. France had given proof, I say, that civilization never progresses, but rather retrogrades, when free thought is seized and fettered. So long as science is looked upon as an enemy to Church or State, so long as Galileo or Copernicus are treated as malefactors, so long as a table of logarithms is considered as the cabalistic signs of the arch enemy, so long will the passing centuries note no changes in the dial-plate of the world's progress.

It remained for America, the youngest of nations to lift from all within her borders, the cruel hand of oppression. And as Minerva, in full panoply, sprung from the brain of Jove, so from this ground idea of Liberty sprung a nation, strong, wise and full-armed. But eternal vigilance is the price of our safety. It will not do to covet freedom for ourselves and consider slavery the proper condition for others. It will not do to forget that liberty to all the land and to the inhabitants thereof, is the talisman of our strength. When we so forget the "open sesame" that unlocks all national good as to cry cravenly for slavery, as to limit the fugitive from bondage over places made sacred as the battlefields of the Revolution. When we so far forget ourselves as to enact laws which the Chief Justice of the nation said, declared in effect that the black man had no rights which the white man was bound to respect, that slavery and freedom should co-exist on the same soil, then and not till then, the pillars of our Republic trembled. And all through the clouds of a dreadful war, through loss of blood and treasure and countless noble and priceless lives, through the valor and courage of the heroes who fought the battles of Union and liberty, did we re-establish in strength the shaken foundations of our nation.

And even yet "Eternal vigilance is the price of our safety." Though the enemies of our Republic are no longer "they of the household" still they are none the less present and insidious. We behold stealthily creeping upon our fair Pacific coast the advance swarm of Asiatic serfs. With no love of liberty do they come, with no desire to forward the progress of this young land do they present themselves, or we could welcome them. But to foster them like a vile parasite upon our growth; to suck the rich juices of our prosperity; to fatten the emaciated wreck of national vice they represent; to open the veins of our commerce that its life blood may replenish the wasted arteries of their own nation; to fasten themselves—a leprosy sore—upon the fair and unpolished flesh of our Republic, their presence is an assault upon our civilization. The stealthy horde has crept, serpent-like, into every village and hamlet of this western coast. But not one pure home is found amongst them, not one intelligent supporter of American institutions, devoid of truth, virtue, honesty or honor, they are incapable of exercising the functions of free government, incapable of assuming the gorgeous habiliments of an American citizen and ought not to. Long ages of thralldom and vice and cruelty have not only eliminated from them all that which we call the "Spirit of Seventy-Six," but all those faculties which make that feeling possible.

Let us beat them back to the seclusion they have so long coveted. We have only to look into their faces, we have only to mark the weakness of their muscles to perceive that the hand of national decay is upon them. Never from that country can come the brave arms and robust minds that are needed to open to civilization the vast lands of our nation. Keep them in that land from whence they came, and by the time this Republic celebrates another Centennial China will be so sick and weak from her own vices that no nation will be craven enough to fear her power to bow or do her homage. We need no deeds of violence to consummate this, with the people, the repositories of our liberties will the evil be cured. In our hand we hold a freedman's weapon—the ballot—"which executes the free man's will as lightning does the will of God." With every added liberty comes also an added responsibility. It is our duty to bequeath to those coming after us, in full measure, the liberties we inherited. It is our duty to guard from destruction every institution of our fathers that tends to elevate the race; they are ours to enjoy, ours to preserve and ours to transmit to posterity.

Above all, guard well our common schools. In education is the real Palladium of Freedom. The truths of science should be as free to all as the air they breathe. Under no pretext whatever should America allow her school system to be tampered with or impaired. See to what heights of inventive skill we have attained in our century. We have no time to enumerate the many grand achievements in science and art. Look, indeed, at the locomotive with lungs of steel and breath of fire, speeding in tireless strength from ocean to ocean; at the steam engine that makes the ship no longer a creature at the mercy of the winds of heaven, but a thing of life moving at her own volition. Look, indeed, at the telegraph that flashes the thoughts of man from Continent to Continent under the billowy seas of the earth with the speed of lightning. What vast strides have been made in every department of mechanics, in astronomy, in geology, in medicinal lore, in every department of science and art.

Not far in the past the phenomena of the heavens—flaming orbs in their circling pathway—were gazed upon with superstitions, terror and dismay, as carrying with them the wrathful elements of disorder and wreck of worlds; but now mankind greet them as winged messengers in the realms of science and hail them as the sure harbinger of peace and order in the universe of God. In the earth's solid rocks man follows the footprints of creative power and connects his powers, progress, possibilities with Deity.

But let us not think that we have exhausted discovery. Let us not dream that the air, the water and the earth we tread have no more mighty secrets to reveal to the earnest questioner.

Because we have drawn electricity from its lair and made it our servant; because we have harnessed the steam and taught it to do our bidding, let us never imagine that we have discovered all the secret forces of nature. Because we have opened the bosom of the earth and read in the successive strata the story of her history through the long ages past, let us not think that we have deciphered the only hieroglyphics in which she pens her story. No; more and mightier far will be the discoveries of the coming century if investigation is still untrammelled, is still encouraged.

Nature is fond of concealing her powers, and she whispers no secret to any but eager and anxious listeners. The ages that listened not, heard not, and, if to some devotee she whispered a mighty secret which was treated as an emanation from Satan, nature had her revenge by withholding her forces from their ken, and bidding them do their labor without her assistance. But, say some, if science discourses truths that tend to subvert the Bible, is it not better to hold to religion and let investigation go? Fear not; it is but the whine of the hypocrite and the oppressor, the teachings of a false philosopher. So surely as the parallel lines never meet, so surely the truths of science and the Bible never clash. No well established scientific truth but has strengthened the foundations of true religion, but gained its impetus from the sublime teachings of holy writ. Because we can weigh the planets and measure their circuit, and resolve the distant nebulae into systems of stars, can we therefore bind the sweetest influence of the Pleiades or loose the bands of Orion? Because we can draw electricity from the sky, can we therefore prevent the clouds from flashing in its brightness, or the firmament from echoing its thunders?

Because we can turn the water to do our bidding, can we prevent the rivers pouring their silver floods into the sea? No, we can do marvelous things, but we cannot rival the handiwork of Him who inhabiteth eternity. It is as when Macbeth said: "Will all great Neptune's ocean wash this blood clean from my hand?" No; this my hand will rather the multitudinous seas incarnadine and make their green one red." But the guilty hands of the world may have themselves in the sea and its waves will still roll in soft emerald upon the shore, still break in snowy foam upon the waiting sands. So, when one tells you that the ocean of God's truth is in danger of pollution from the researches of man, tear the mask from his face, and you will find behind it, not religion, not liberty, but persecution and greed and oppression. Then be sure to leave to the coming century free schools—free to all—educate the young of the land; inspire them with a desire for knowledge, and fill the land with the means of gratifying it; and so shall our nation become more glorious, grander, stronger and greater, more and more with the wonders of discovery, and shall virtue and liberty and our free institutions flourish and remain in the land.

And, we see the land that it is very good, stretching in beauty and sublimity from ocean to ocean, rich in verdant plains, glorious in magnificent mountains, opulent in mines of exhaustless store, beautiful in flowing rivers and besky forests, with an extent of wealth and magnitude never before gained by any nation—its vastness inspires us as its beauty wins our love.

When we contemplate our native land we feel that no sacrifice is too great to be made for her. Nothing that we can do but we would gladly do that her liberty may remain unclouded and secure. No vigil too severe, no labor too wearisome, if by it we may guard her from her foes, preserve her liberty, her union, her free institutions for ourselves and posterity, inviolate and forever.

And behold floating over her the ensign of glory—the Star Spangled Banner. Surely an inspiration from Heaven fell upon those who gave us that flag. Its wonderful beauty is more than earthly. It floats there the emblem of our hope and the inspiration of our patriotism; that flag, radiant and hallowed with the glories of a hundred years—the glories that await illustrious deeds; that flag which our fathers bore in triumph at the head of charging squadrons, above the smoke and clangor of arms, over the battlefields and battlefields of the Revolution—who, above the sheeted flames of battle upheld it over the cotton bales of New Orleans and unfurled it to the breeze in victorious light, above the halls of the Montezuma; that flag, of the only Republic; and if it fails perhaps the last on the face of the globe.

Forever float that standard sheet,
Where breezes the foe but fails before us;
And Freedom's soul beneath our feet,
And Freedom's banner waving o'er us.

Oh! American Columbia! Thy name is the very synonym of liberty! Thy banner the very symbol of freedom! Blessed be he that blest thee, and cursed be he that curseth thee!

INSTALLATION.—The following newly elected officers of Truckee Lodge, No. 14, I. O. O. F., were duly installed last night by Deputy Grand Master, A. C. McFarlin: C. C. Powning, Junior Past Grand; E. A. Brown, Noble Grand; James H. Borland, Vice Grand; C. H. Stoddard, Recording Secretary; Geo. W. Cunningham, Permanent Secretary; Jacob Graft, Treasurer; F. C. Updike, Warden; H. G. Mathewson, Conductor; Wm. Lucas, R. S. N. G.; W. H. Moe, R. S. V. G.; R. W. Ash, L. S. V. G.; W. D. Phillips, I. G.

Should that Centennial baby—announced elsewhere—live until July 4th, 1876, he will be a feature, and will receive as much attention as does Miss Virginia Tilton—the first child born in Virginia City—who was photographed on the 4th while sitting on the Reno—the V. & T. passenger engine—and who had a prominent place in the procession. Hurrah for the Centennial Boy!

GOLD HILL NEWS.—The advertisement of this well and favorably known State paper appears in another column. The News is just such a newspaper as the New York Leader. When you get in the habit of reading it it is a hard matter matter to break off. Try the News and if you don't like it we will give you your money back.

Justice's Court.—A Mr. Brannan was arraigned before Judge Wilson yesterday on a charge of driving and exhibiting a deadly weapon in a rude and threatening manner. The offense was committed in Peavine. Mr. Brannan will be tried to-day.

LARGEST SHIPMENT.—Last night the largest shipment of bullion ever sent on one day occurred. It was 172 bars. Of these 132 were from the Consolidated Virginia and California mines, and valued at $518,522 28. Those kind of things tell bullion on the stockholders.

CONGRATULATORY.—Our young friend Nate Roff is to be congratulated on being so fortunate as to become a happy father on the 4th. Call the boy "Centennial."

The partnership between Chapin & Cuppett, nursery men, has been dissolved.—Mr. Cuppett retiring from the firm.

No baby ever goes away from the Flying Gallery because they can't get a picture. Take notice, mothers, and improve the opportunity. Pictures of all kinds cheaper than ever before known in Reno—at the Great Flying Gallery.

TINTYPES (that are pictures, not dunks) cheaper than the cheapest at Budden's.

THE only place to get pictures that are pictures (as some of you know to your sorrow) is at Budden's.

WANTED.—Twenty-five good square timbermen. Apply to S. S. Watson, Hunter's Creek, below Mickey & Fair's upper mill.
